

A magical place to read and learn

School libraries are special places, where children can explore a wide range of knowledge and enter a world full of stories that fire their imagination. To create an enchanting place for fertile young minds to grow, Natureworks was commissioned to build a nature-inspired area inside the library at Fraser Coast Anglican College

To bring nature into the library, Natureworks created a reading area framed by four majestic artificial trees. A beautiful archway supported by oversized story books sets the scene and adds extra visual interest.
